About

Founded in 1877, the University of Tokyo (UTokyo) is one of the leading institutions of higher education in Asia, with more than 4000 faculty members and 30,000 students. We welcome students from all over the world to join our inspiring community and participate in cutting-edge research and education we offer. We will have an in-person information session in our New York Office, which will also be made available online.

Come join us in our Manhattan office and experience what it's like to study with us in the post-pandemic world!
